Samuel Omozusi

Associate

I am an associate in Fox Williams' Financial Services team, advising banks, lenders, fintechs and other regulated businesses on a broad range of UK financial services regulatory matters.

Samuel is an associate in Fox Williams' Financial Services team. He advises banks, lenders, payment services firms, fintechs, asset managers and other regulated businesses on a broad range of UK financial services regulatory matters. His experience includes payments and e-money, consumer credit, authorisations and regulatory perimeter issues, governance and financial crime compliance.

Prior to joining Fox Williams, Samuel was an associate in the Financial Services Regulatory team at TLT LLP. During his time there, he completed client secondments with Lloyds Banking Group and NatWest, advising on payment services, commercial banking and retail banking regulatory matters.

Before entering private practice, Samuel worked at the Payment Systems Regulator and previously held roles at the Financial Conduct Authority and the Financial Ombudsman Service. This experience across private practice, regulators and financial institutions enables him to provide commercially focused advice grounded in an understanding of how the regulatory framework operates in practice.

Legal Expertise

- FCA authorisations and regulatory perimeter advice
- Payments and e-money
- Consumer lending (credit cards, overdrafts, loans)
- Fintechs and technology
- General financial services regulatory
- Financial crime compliance

- Financial services regulatory

Memberships

Financial Services Lawyers Association