

Arjun Majumdar

Senior Associate

I am a senior associate in Fox Williams' technology team. I advise clients on data and technology matters and specialise in data protection and privacy.

Arjun's specialism is data protection and privacy, having worked with clients, from large corporations to start-ups, on their GDPR compliance strategy as well as advising on complex data protection and privacy issues. These include working on data protection impact assessments, cross-border data transactions and data breach management.

He also has significant experience advising on cloud services agreements, online platform terms, software licences, data processing agreements and IT services contracts.

Returning to Fox Williams having worked in-house in the sports data and media industries, Arjun understands first-hand the challenges and pressures confronted by businesses.
