

James Collis

Associate

I am an associate in our commerce & technology team. I advise clients in the technology, travel, and digital services sectors on commercial contracts, IP, data protection, and regulatory matters.

James is an associate in our commerce & technology team. He advises clients in the technology and travel sectors on commercial contracts, software licensing, intellectual property, data protection, and regulatory compliance.

Before joining Fox Williams, James trained and qualified at a US law firm, where he advised on IP-rich transactions, licensing arrangements, and cross-border regulatory issues. He has acted for clients in the software, medical technology, education, and gaming sectors, including platform developers, healthtech companies, and academic institutions.

Legal Expertise

- Technology contracts and commercial advisory
- Travel industry regulation and contracting
- IP licensing and commercialisation
- SaaS, platforms, and digital services